KE OLA NEI KA 'ŌLELO HAWAI'I. The Hawaiian language is alive. Following the overthrow of the Hawaiian kingdom, our mother tongue was forced underground for most of the 20th century until the widespread spiritual, political, and cultural revival commonly known as the Hawaiian Renaissance began in the 1970s. But even then, younger generations weren't speaking the language. By the early 1980s, it was estimated that fewer than 50 children under age 18 spoke Hawaiian.

Fast-forward nearly three decades. The Hawaiian language is no longer a relic in our ancestral homeland. Over 2,500 students were enrolled in Hawaiian language immersion programs from preschool to high school last year, as well as many others in Hawaiian language classes and Hawaiian language degree courses in the University of Hawai'i system. Today, we see and hear our cherished 'ōlelo on TV, on the radio, in newspapers, magazines, official government documents, shirts, building names, and street signs.

Our language is an important component of Hawaiian life and culture, as it helps bond us with our Hawaiian identity and values. We share the stories of our values with cultures around the world, but ours are bound inextricably to our people by the ancestral and cultural imponderables that accompany our values as they illuminate our path forward in this world.

A collective desire for our Hawaiian nation to be strong and move forward comes from the ethos that we have for our people and our land. From this desire comes the patience and willingness to listen to each other to be sure that we move forward together. Each and every one of us has a responsibility to work hard to blaze the path forward toward self-determination, with the knowledge and inspiration of the values bestowed upon us by our kūpuna lighting the way.

E NEÊPA HIKOU I MUA A KÔ I KA MÀMALAMA O NÀ WAHIAWA KA HAWAI'I.

We look toward 2009 with great optimism. We see the promise of Native Hawaiian initiatives such as the Native Hawaiian Government Reorganization Act, also known as the Akaka Bill, moving forward, bringing Native Hawaiians closer to the goal of self-determination in a unified effort. ALOHA KĀKOU.

With great pride, I present the Office of Hawaiian Affairs fiscal year 2008 Annual Report which highlights the agency’s programs, activities, leadership and financial summary for the period covering July 1, 2007, to June 30, 2008.

The Office of Hawaiian Affairs is led by the nine-member Board of Trustees, which sets policy for the agency’s administration. OHA’s 157 employees staff the agency’s administrative office in Honolulu, community offices in Kona, Hilo, Kahului, Kamehameha, Līhu’ī City and Līhu’e and a bureau in Washington, D.C.

“the language has become a part of our everyday lives in carrying forward the values of our brilliant Hawaiian people – nā waiwai a ka Hawai‘i.”

In fiscal year 2008, the Office of Hawaiian Affairs made great strides in meeting its mission of bettering the conditions of Native Hawaiians. OHA pledged $3 million per year for 30 years to assist the State Department of Hawaiian Home Lands with financing for housing infrastructure statewide, awarded more than $18 million in grants, successfully launched the OHA Miilona Loan program that has approved $10 million in loans, celebrated our land acquisitions at Wa‘ale ‘O Paua and Waimāna Valley, supported public charter schools that implement Hawaiian models of education, provided greater outreach to the Native Hawaiian community and the public at-large through the expansion of OHA’s radio show, Nā ʻŌiwi ‘Ola‘ino, through a network of AM and FM radio stations, and vigorously fought to protect iki‘i kūpuna and burial sites at more than 20 locations across Hawai‘i and the Continental U.S.

OHA has also strived for greater transparency and openness this past year through making available as much information as possible on what we do. For more information on the Office of Hawaiian Affairs and its programs, visit us online at www.OHA.org.

This year’s artistic theme showcases the renaissance of the Hawaiian culture through the rejuvenation of ka ‘ōlelo Hawai‘i,” the language of our Hawaiian people. We use the photography of Arne Johnson to illustrate how the language has become a part of our everyday lives in carrying forward the values of our brilliant Hawaiian people – nā waiwai a ka Hawai‘i.

Keeping the language strong and alive goes far in perpetuating who we are as a people.

Me ka ‘oei”o.
